

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air a (very partisan) anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. What happened to equal time for political issues? I haven't heard that Sinclair will be broadcasting a similar 90 minute anti-Bush documentary.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. As far as I know there are laws governing what can and cannot be aired. Your organization, the FCC, the our watchdog to keep errant broadcasters in line and to protect the public. Please look into this issue immediately and use your governing powers to fix this problem.

Thank you.
